About This Workshop & NEMO:

This workshop will provide an opportunity to enhance your knowledge of the impacts of land use on water and natural resources and will provide a variety of tools including plans, practices, and policies to protect and improve clean water resources. Tailored to the issues and resources in our area, it will also enhance a dialogue between local leaders, residents, and water resource professionals about the value and challenges of clean water in our communities. The workshop will consist of presentations, interactive activities, and group discussion.

About NEMO:

NEMO—Nonpoint Education for Municipal Officials—is an education and training program that builds the knowledge and skills of local decision makers, elected and appointed officials, and community leaders in the area of water and natural resource management. NEMO programs provide resources that lead to more informed land use decisions for the community. For more information, visit: www.northlandnemo.org.

Workshop Partners:

This workshop was made possible through funding provided by Hubbard County Extension. The NEMO education and outreach effort is being led by the University of Minnesota Extension with a broad partnership including many local SWCD offices, cities, Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, Department of Natural Resources, and other local organizations.
